Released: October 28, 2024

RELATED TOPICS: ELECTION SECURITY

WASHINGTON – Today, the Cybersecurity and Infrastructure Security Agency (CISA) launched a new one-stop shop website for election threat updates from CISA and our federal government partners. As foreign actors continue their efforts to influence and interfere with the 2024 elections, CISA is ensuring that information about the election threat environment is readily accessible.

Part of the larger #Protect2024 site launched in January, the page aims to make it easier to find specific threat related products that the American public can use to stay informed and the election community can use to prepare, including:

- Joint Statements from CISA, ODNI and FBI on threats to the 2024 election
- ODNI Election Threat Updates
- FBI and CISA “Just So You Know” Joint PSA Series

Since its initial launch, #Protect2024 has quickly grown and serves as the central point for critical resources, training lists and security services to support more than 8,000 election jurisdictions for the 2024 election cycle.

Additional resources will be made available on this page as they are released. For more information, please continue to visit #Protect2024 </topics/election-security/protect2024>.
